a folio website for every child

EduKite gives each child at your school their own portfolio website (called a kite). This innovation brings simplicity, usability and fun to e-learning. EduKite is unique in its approach to e-learning and portfolio management because it offers all the features and functionality of a personal portal, plus a tremendously powerful task management and e-portfolio system. Kites display notices, activities, projects, wiki threads, events, and portfolio items.

EduKite is a complete e-learning framework that will engage your entire school community. Children, parents and teachers are all actively looking to get involved because they love the system and its simplicity. Teachers who have no knowledge of e-learning will soon be hosting wikis, assessing work and managing e-portfolios. Parents can visit their child's kite to see homework tasks, the latest school news and to browse through the portfolio. Meanwhile, can children submit projects and collaborate via an activities-based wiki.

EduKite works hard to keep parents informed of day-to-day activities, and removes that stress from the hands of the educators. For example, when you post a notice, EduKite sends an email to parents informing them that something new is available to view on their kite. Your kites become the centre point where important information and activities are displayed. EduKite actively promotes good practice and clear communication.

Kites That Really Add Up

The EduKite system will allow your school to benefit from savings in stationary and other consumables, postage and other administrative costs. There is also an environmental benefit to using the EduKite system - Teachers save time by posting homework tasks quickly, and archiving resources which can be used again and again. EduKite delivers e-learning without technical complications. We host it, maintain it and ensure that you are up and flying day and night. Benefit from the clarity of communication that EduKite delivers.
